

Tibet: Cry of the Snow Lion

A definitive exploration of a well-known yet little understood subject, this film tells the epic story of modern Tibet: a story of struggle and suffering, courage and compassion.

Ten years in the making, this award-winning documentary was filmed during nine remarkable journeys throughout Tibet, India and Nepal. It brings audiences to the long-forbidden "rooftop of the world" with an unprecedented richness of imagery. The dark secrets of Tibet's recent past are powerfully chronicled through riveting personal stories, interviews, and a collection of archival images.

The story of the Dalai Lama's efforts to maintain a non-violent struggle for justice takes on renewed relevance in a world focused on war and terrorism. Tibet: Cry of the Snow Lion powerfully examines the history of devastation in Tibet, the international significance of the Tibetan issue today, and the spiritual beliefs that continue to inspire hope for the future.
